Our must-read blog posts on VoxTalk

1 TY'S LOVIN' IT

It's his McDream come true. Music editor Tyler McConnell began his love affair with McDonald's when he was 3, and he keeps coming back for more — of their sauces. This week, he shares the intimate details of his relationship with Mickey D's in a thoughtful and sincere review of the fast-food giant's legendary family of condiments.

2 FREEBIRD!

Step aside, El Rancho. There's a new Mexican restaurant in town. Freebirds World Burrito, a California-based chain, has flown east and landed in Columbia to satisfy your flighty food cravings. It's nacho typical Mexican fare, amigos.

3 SECRET, SECRET GOTTA EAT IT

Every weekend, The Food Bank of Central & Northeast Missouri sends food-filled backpacks home with food-insecure youth. In May, they asked Columbia-area chefs, amateur cooks and foodies to submit their favorite recipes for a cookbook that benefits the Buddy Pack Program.

4 ONE FLEW OVER THE QUIDDITCH NEST

You're not fooling anyone, J.K. Rowling. Everyone knows you're cuckoo for penning The Cuckoo's Calling under a pseudonym and thinking you could get away with it. Anyway, it's a good read. Oh, and sales are soaring.
